World Congress of Families: Making a Difference!

If the only thing you knew about Winston Churchill is that the very mention of his name infuriated Hitler, you could thereby deduce that Churchill somehow stood between the Nazi tyrant and his megalomaniac ambition.

Likewise, if the only thing you knew about the World Congress of Families is that our most recent Congress was listed by Planned Parenthood as its third worst moment of 2015, you would thereby know that we are making a huge difference.

“In October of 2015,” laments Planned Parenthood in its report, “the World Congress of Families, the notoriously anti-LGBT and anti-SRHR World Congress of Families (WCF) held an international conference in Salt Lake City, bringing together thousands of the most hateful extremists from around the world.”

Our Salt Lake event, as with all our World Congresses, unapologetically held up the banner of truth that the natural family, based on marriage between a man and a woman, is the irreplaceable foundation of civilization and the best refuge and school for children; that children need both a mother and a father; that human life from conception to natural death is sacred; and that religious freedom is essential to the flourishing of family and society.

That all of this would be labeled “hateful” calls to mind the prophet Isaiah’s warning about calling “evil good, and good evil.” Notwithstanding increasing opposition, the World Congress of Families boldly leads a worldwide chorus of voices in declaring the truth about family, faith, and freedom. And no amount of false or intimidating rhetoric can stop us.

Indeed, in the face of the accelerated efforts of our opponents, we are rapidly preparing for our next World Congress in the nation of Georgia on May 15-18, 2016, in response to the sobering request by our courageous colleague Levan Vasadze: “The West is attacking our Christian culture with atheism, new forms of socialism and sexual radicalism—worse than what we saw during the last 25 years when we were part of the Soviet empire. This is why we need you to come to Tbilisi and work with us.” You can find more information on the upcoming Congress here.

At this critical time when the very foundation of society of civilization is under shameless attack, we invite you to join us in standing for truth.

Sincerely,

E. Douglas Clark
